

Ok, this thing is mostly green. It can have sharp points so you have to be careful. Any guesses?

It can grow to be pretty big, but takes a while to grow. Sometimes you have one in your house, usually only for a few weeks. What do you think it is? Do you need more clues?

You can put lights on it or hang things on it. It's shaped like a triangle. What about now? Ok, last clue. It's a kind of tree.... right, a Christmas tree! Let's do one more guessing game, but this time I'm going to use a different way to describe it. Here we go!

It's morning but chilly out as the sun is just peeking up to start the day when the first people get to this place. They begin by mixing things in big bowls, stirring like a wheel, spinning and spinning. Should I keep going?

Soon, it begins to smell sweet in the air, and the air is hot from the activity in the room. One person fills the window with small splashes of pink, blue and yellow. They sit like wildflowers behind the glass, so everyone who passes by can see and delight in the beautiful creations. Any guesses?

Another person pushes and pulls at a large ball, shaping it like clay, making it ready for the fire, where it will rise and grow in the warmth. Later, it will find a new home where it will meet butter or jam to make a tasty snack. What is this place? Yes, a bakery!
